THE 1948

CATHEDRAL SPIRE

CAMDEN CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL

CAMDEN, NEW JERSEY

Dedicated to . . .

THE members of the graduating class of Camden Catholic High School respectfully dedicate their Cathedral Spire to His Excellency, the Most Reverend Bartholomew J. Eustace.

For a decade we have felt the Power that guided and ruled this Diocese of Camden; we have experienced the Fidelity of your service to its spiritual and temporal needs; we have realized the peace of Christ which flows from the Wisdom of your leadership. Often we have prayed to Our Immaculate Mother to fill your consecrated hands with the abundance that is the perfect gift—"Glory to God Alone."

We pledge you to go forth this year of our graduation strong in the Power of the Truth that makes us children of the Father, Faithful to the teachings of Christ the Son, and Wise in the possession of the Holy Spirit. This is possible because we too have asked through Mary to know the will of God and to live for His glory alone.

The least of Your Flock, The Seniors of 1948, Beg a Blessing.

History of Coat of Arms

THE right side of the shield identifies the New Diocese of Camden. This part of the shield being the jurisdictional side, the Bishop assumes on it the insignia of his diocese, here represented by three elephant heads originally on the shield of that of Lord Camden for whom the city is named. As used by Lord Camden the three heads signify power, fidelity, and sagacity, respectively. The cross above each now transfers the same qualities to the spiritual order. The crescent at the top represents heraldically the Immaculate Conception, which is the title of the Cathedral of Camden. On the personal side of the coat of arms, the gold cross running saltirewise athwart a field of red is the cross of Saint Eustace, who was a martyr. The trefoils are in compliment to Cardinal Hayes, whose coat of arms shows three shamrocks. The star at the top declares the present Bishop's devotion to the ever Blessed Virgin Mary. The motto translated reads: "Glory to God Alone".

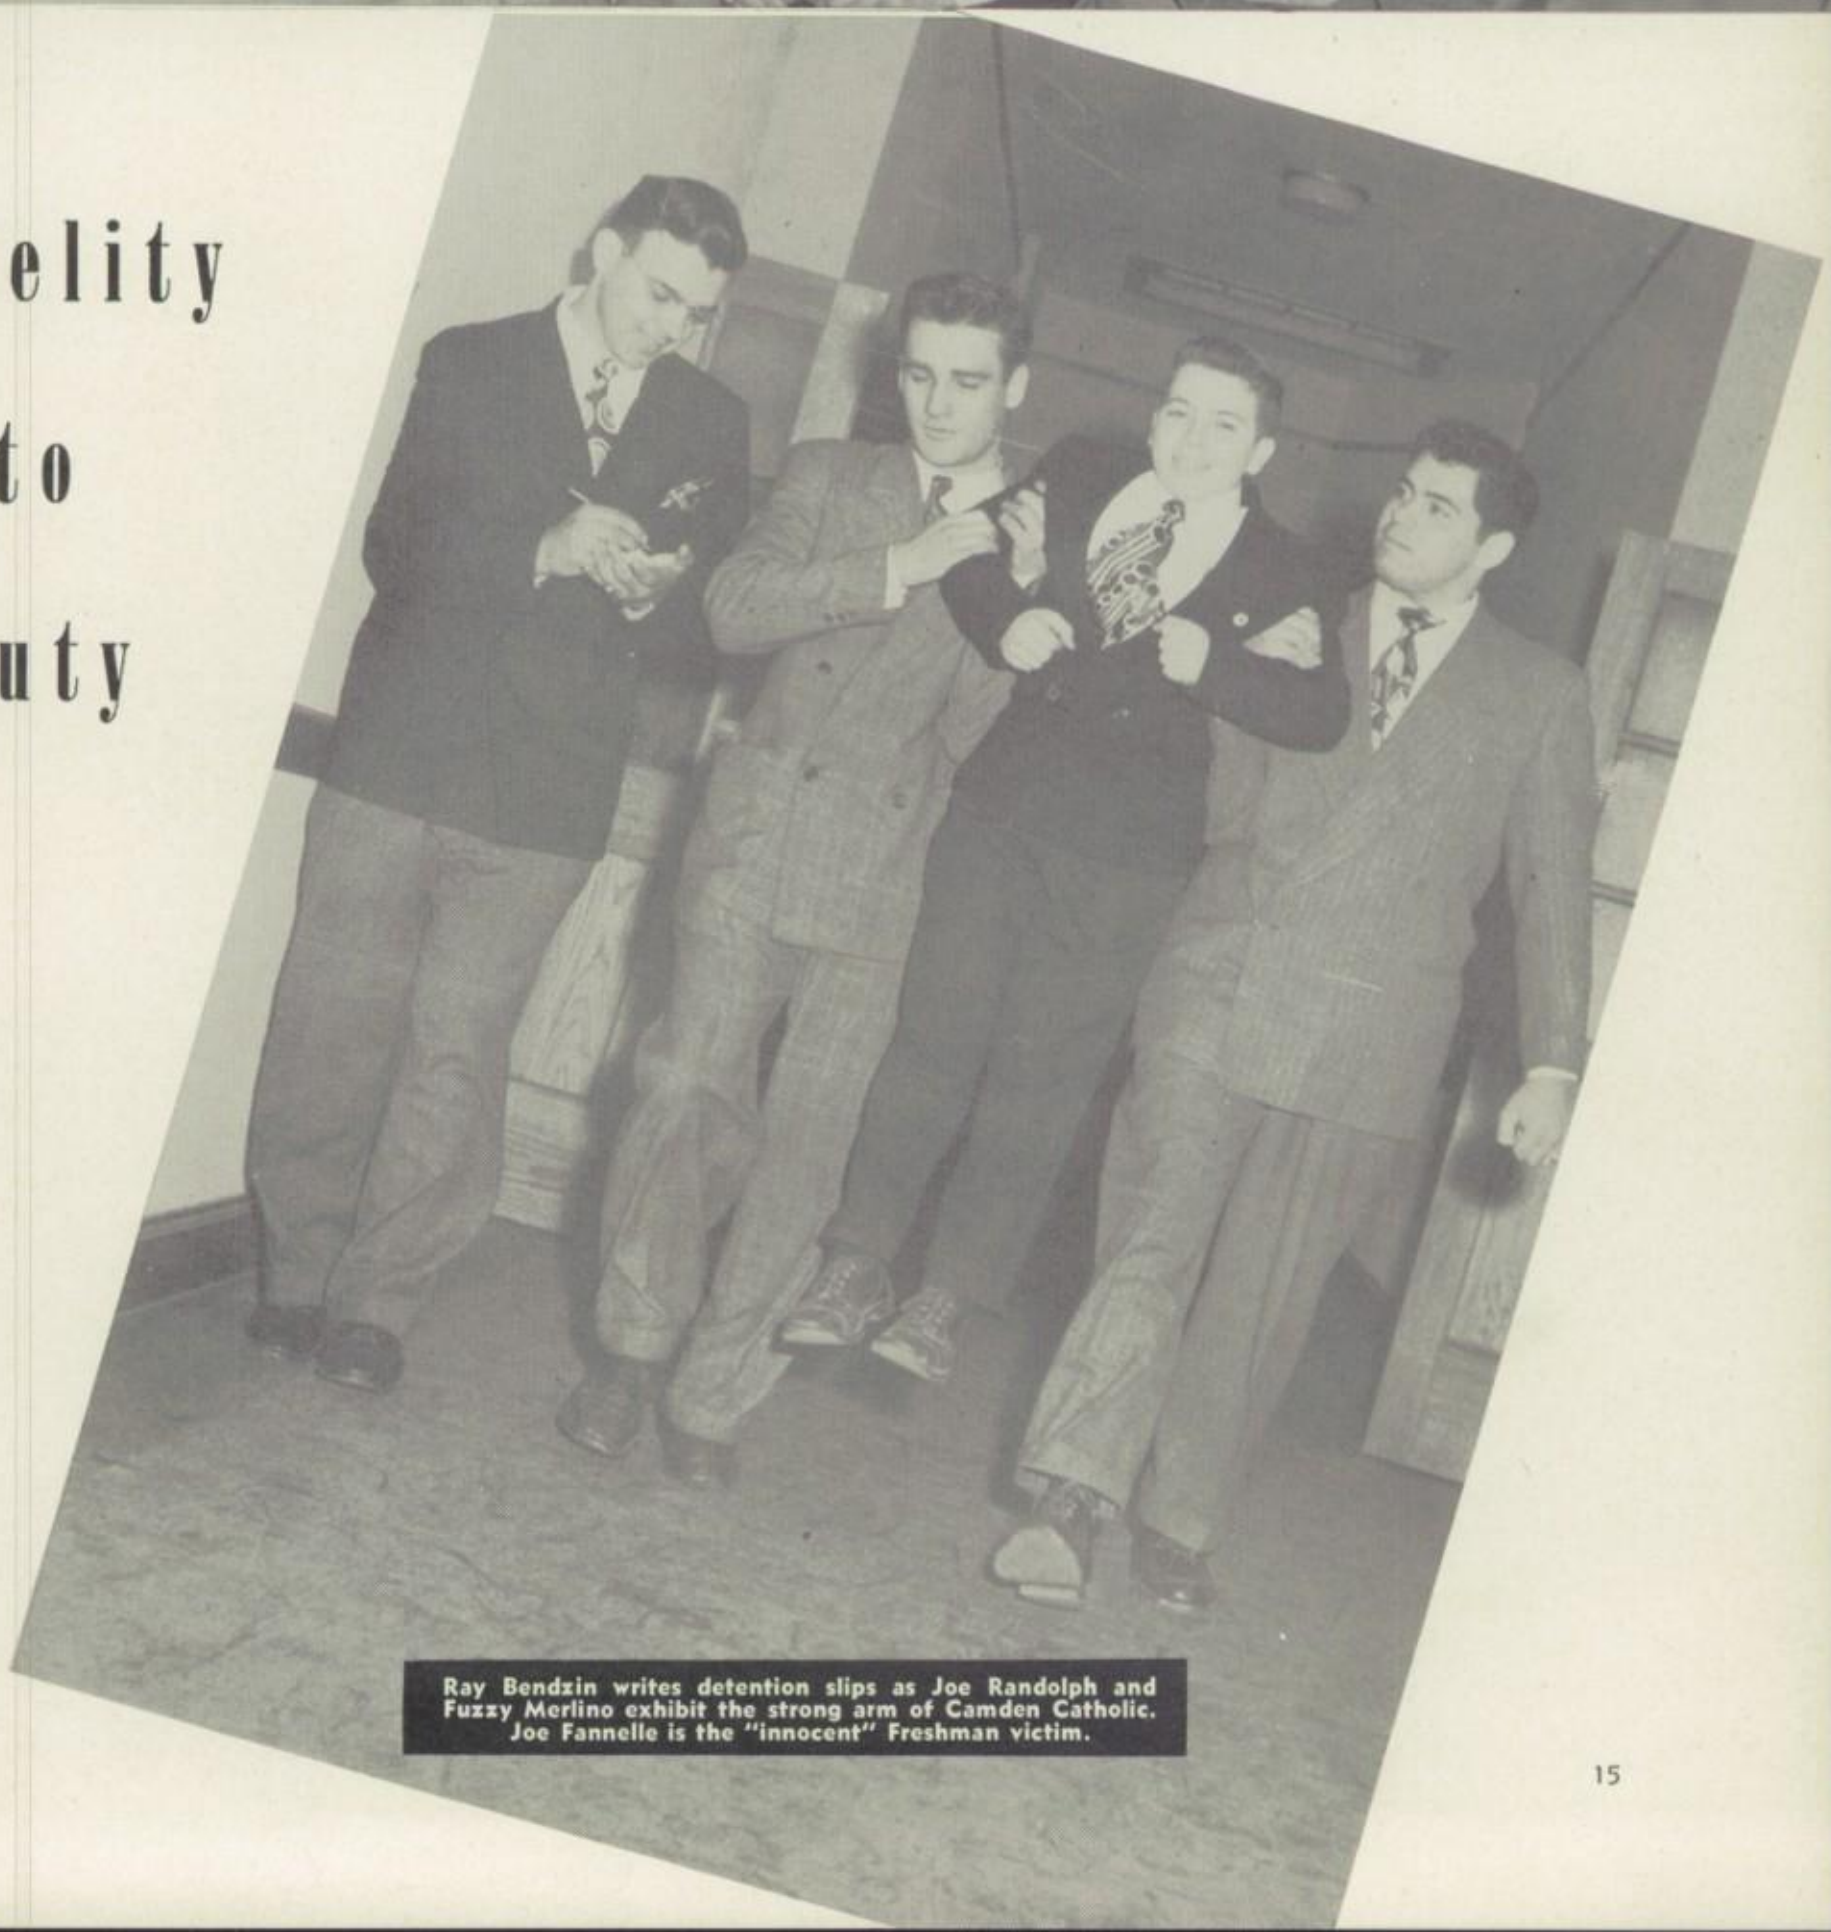
. . . to give Glory to God Alone

Inspecting their future home are Junior Section presidents, James Mulderig, X1A[2]; Charles Tull, X1A[1]; Jimmy Murray, X1B; Thomas Burke, X1A; Doris Monroe, X1C[2]; Dolores Cahill, X1C[1], and John Casey, Junior Class President.

Student Council: Joseph Clisham, President, conducting meeting; Margaret Crawford, Secretary; Therese D'Aloise, Literary; Amelia Dowdell, Assembly; Joseph Wolfram, Extra-Curricular; Patricia Sullivan, Bulletin Boards; Claire Casey, Clubs; Eleanor Mulligan, Treasurer; Rose Smith, Social Welfare; and William Rusin, Music.

Senior Class President Edward Hughes conducts a meeting of Senior Section Presidents, Frank Magann, XIIA[1]; Joseph Discher, XIIA[2]; Marion Sajewicz, XIIC[1]; James McCorriston, XIIC[2]; and Joseph Perno, XIIB.

Fidelity to Duty



Ray Bendzin writes detention slips as Joe Randolph and Fuzzy Merlino exhibit the strong arm of Camden Catholic. Joe Fannelle is the "innocent" Freshman victim.

Social Activities Director Alice Anne O'Brien and Party and Dance Chairman William Garrity, and Tony Mecca choose their favorites from the latest additions to the record file.

Lunch time is dance time. Certain girls are going to be awfully surprised when they see this picture.

eshman Class President William Nardello and ction Presidents Jane Hartman, Barbara Dilelsi, ıry Hathaway, Maryanne Sullivan, Paul Kelly, Michael Dempsey and Michael Lupico.

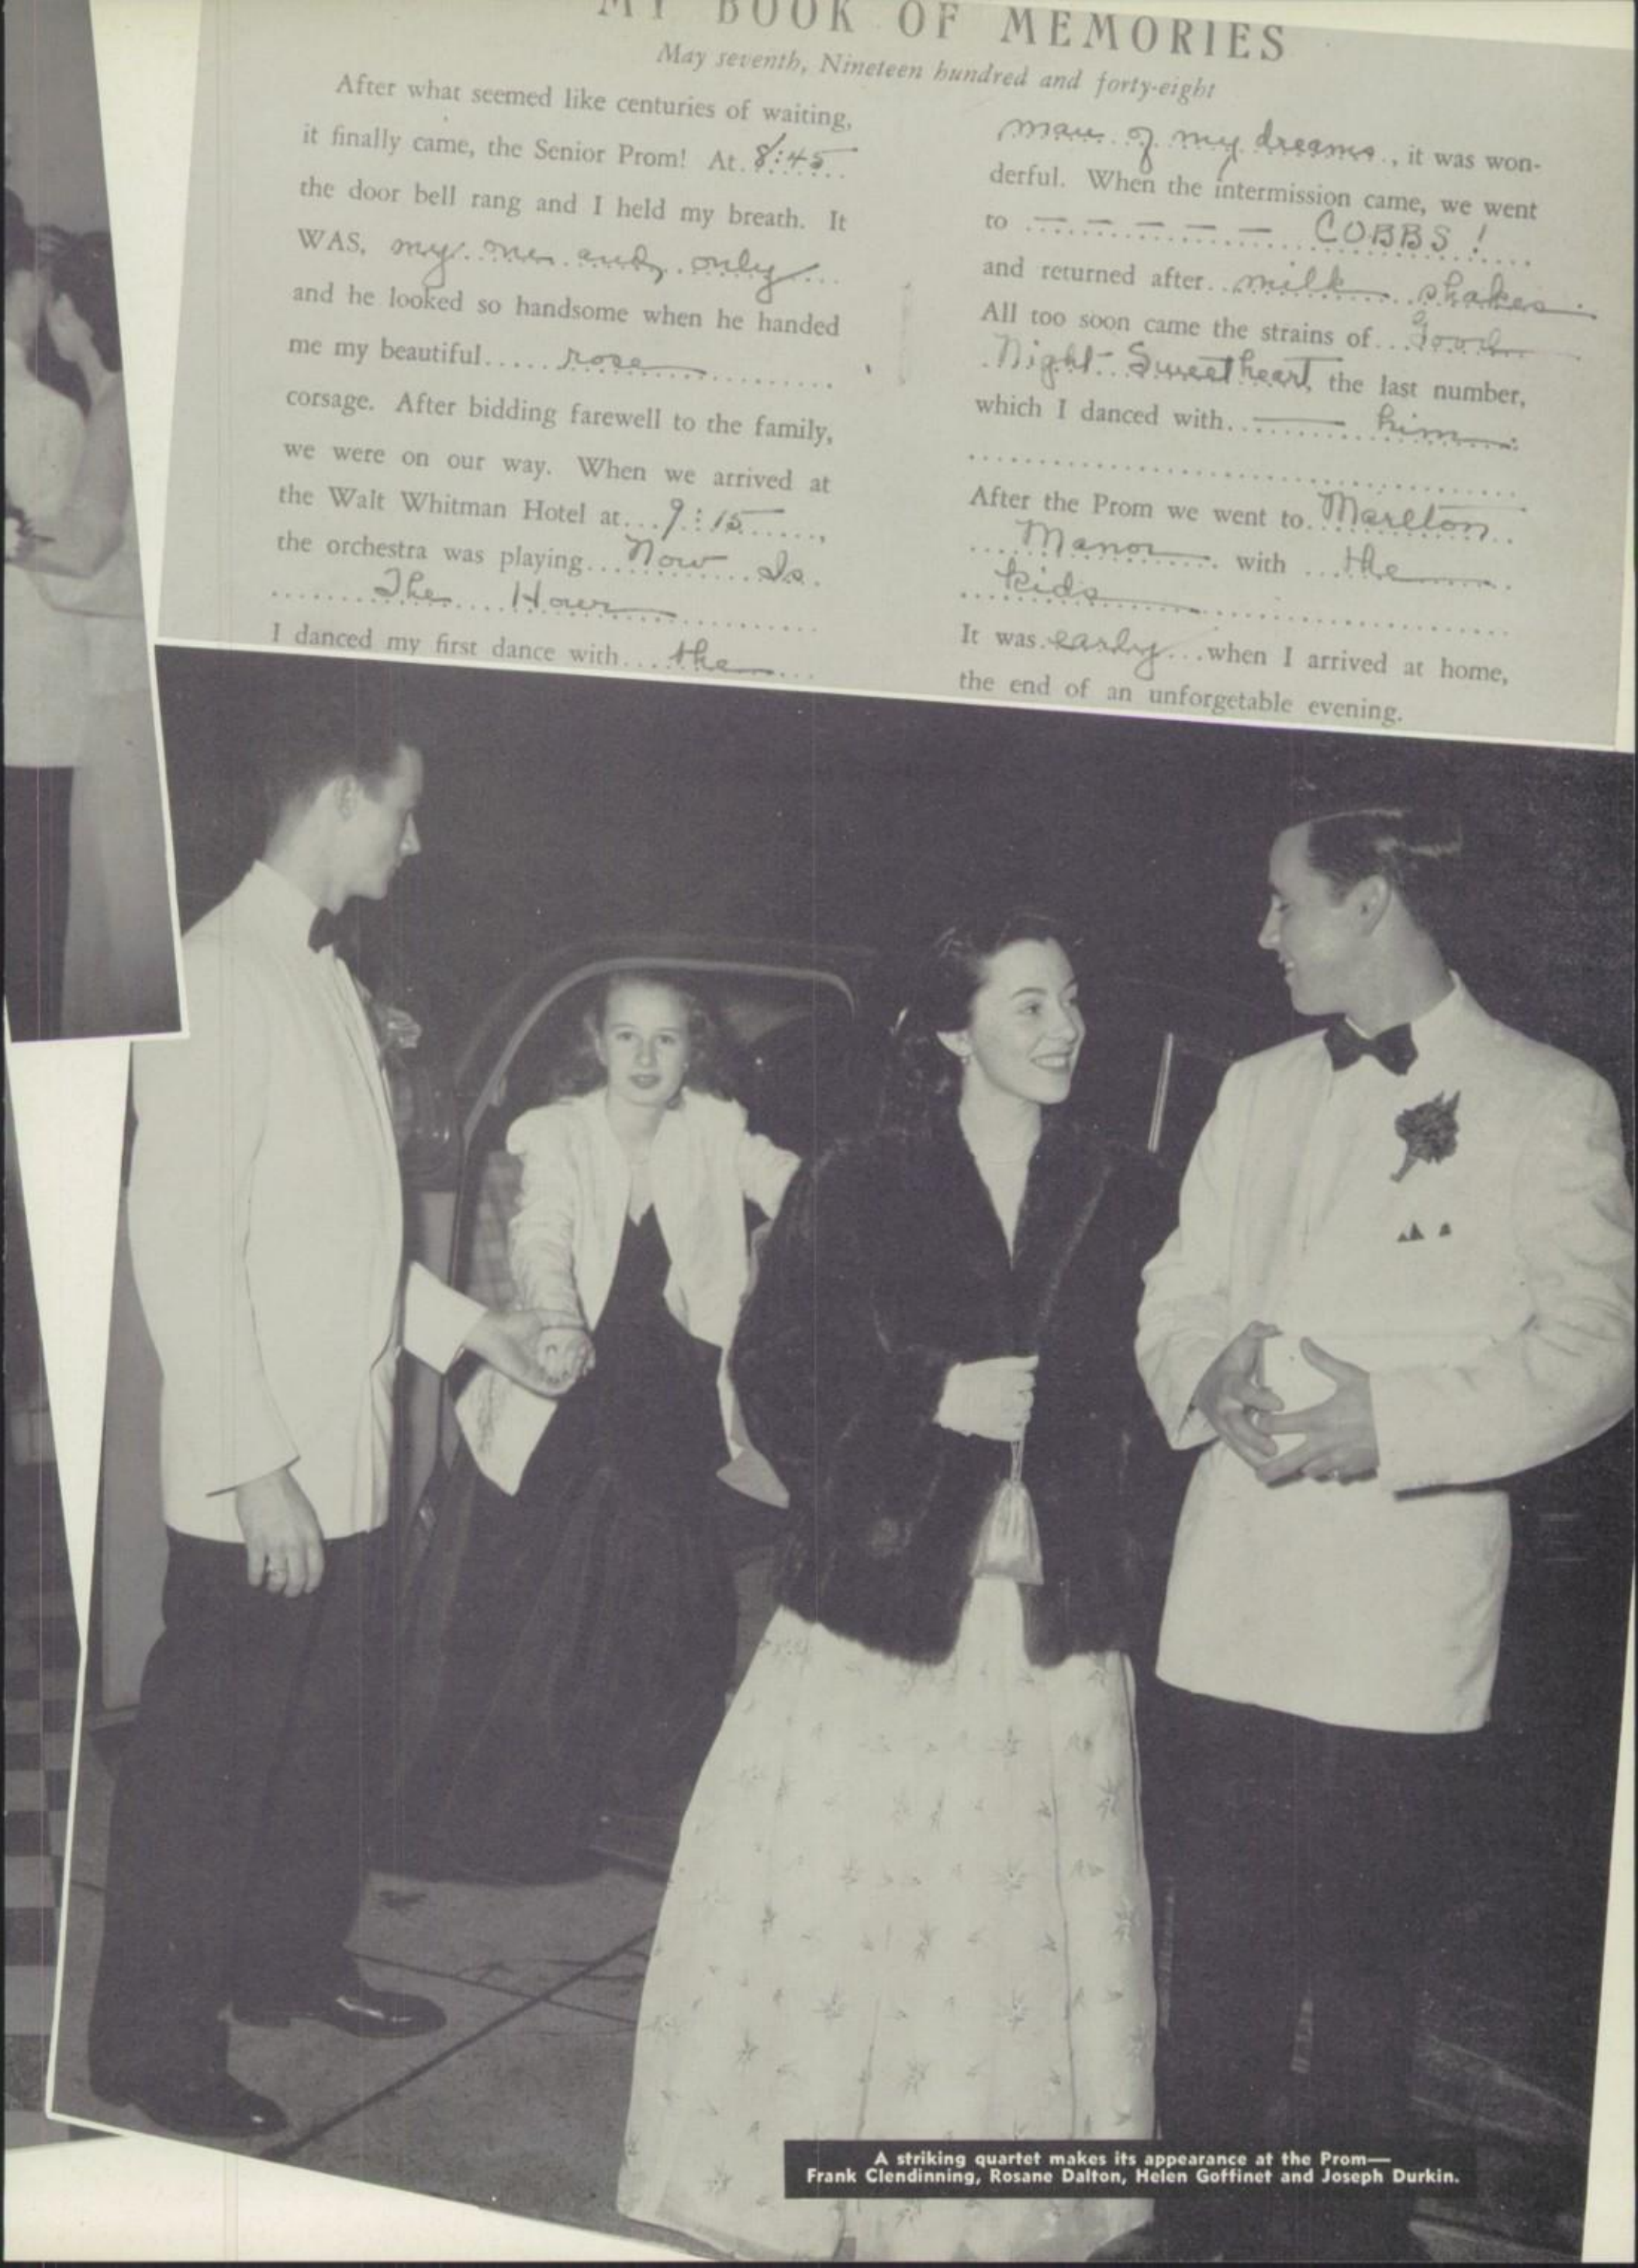
MY BOOK OF MEMORIES

May seventh, Nineteen hundred and forty-eight

After what seemed like centuries of waiting, it finally came, the Senior Prom! At 8:45 the door bell rang and I held my breath. It WAS, my own only ... and he looked so handsome when he handed me my beautiful ... rose ... corsage. After bidding farewell to the family, we were on our way. When we arrived at the Walt Whitman Hotel at ... 9:15 ..., the orchestra was playing ... Now Is The Hour ... I danced my first dance with ... the ... man ... of my dreams ..., it was wonderful. When the intermission came, we went to ... COBBS ! ... and returned after ... milk ... Shakes. All too soon came the strains of ... Good Night Sweetheart, the last number, which I danced with ... him ... After the Prom we went to ... Marlton ... Manor ... with ... the ... kids ... It was ... early ... when I arrived at home, the end of an unforgetable evening.



A striking quartet makes its appearance at the Prom—
Frank Clendinning, Rosane Dalton, Helen Goffinet and Joseph Durkin.

Archie Gross, Joe Clisham, Bob McFadden all set for the big night.

Betty Farrell and Bob DePersia anticipate a memorable evening.

Frank Clancey and Jane Malloy looking absorbed . . . but not in each other.

Betty Mahoney admires Dotty Curran's old-fashioned bouquet as Ed Gimmi and Bernie McDonnell stand patiently by.

Grace, Jack McHugh, Bob Schmitt, a Gubenska, Bill Hamilton and Mary Roselli chat during intermission.
